ADDITIONAL REQUIREMENTS

- Property utilized for the release of White-tailed Deer and other mammals must not be enclosed or bordered in a manner which prevents the animals from leaving at will (e.g. "game-proof" fencing, fencing over 4 feet in height on more than 3 sides, etc.)
- WRR will at times release domesticated or hybrid ducks and geese who should not be allowed to reproduce. Allowing unchecked reproduction of these animals can potentially result in aggression, injury, and overpopulation and degradation of the water source. During the spring months, these animals must be monitored for signs of mating and nesting behavior including nest building and territoriality. If females are seen sitting on nests, the eggs should be removed and disposed of; this will eliminate the threat of overpopulation and lessen the potential for fighting over food sources.

Please note below if you are unable to meet these requirements.

I am NOT able to have the following species released on my property: (Please check)

White-tailed Deer

Domesticated or hybrid ducks or geese

In signing this form, I agree to these additional terms of release for the species indicated above.

WRR Animal Release Procedure

1. A candidate for release is identified by appropriate WRR personnel as having attained good health and all necessary skills and abilities required for survival upon return to the wild.
2. Approved release sites are evaluated for suitability for the particular animal(s) to be released. The landowner/caretaker of a release site with the proper habitat essential for that animal's survival is contacted by WRR staff.
3. The landowner/ caretaker of the selected property will collaborate with WRR staff to arrange details of the release such as transportation of the animal(s), proper time of year, appropriate time of day, etc. Arrangements are made at this time for any supplemental feedings or other support methods to be put in place.
4. The animal(s) is/are released; the date and time recorded. Photographs may be taken during the release, depending on the circumstances.
5. The landowner/caretaker should contact WRR if there is any sighting or evidence of the animal's whereabouts. If the animal appears injured or unhealthy, WRR should be contacted immediately.

WAIVER

I realize that there is an inherent risk in having wild animals on my property. I understand that Wildlife Rescue & Rehabilitation, Inc. is not responsible for the behavior of animals on my property. I hereby grant Wildlife Rescue & Rehabilitation, Inc. my permission to release on my property those animals who they have determined to be fit for survival in the wild.
